

Correspondence relating to Spanish coinage.

Author: Isaac Newton

Source: MINT 19/2/201, National Archives, Kew, Richmond, Surrey, UK

<201r>

Gentlemen.

By Order of my Lord Treasurer I send you here inclosed a Spanish peece of money being a two Ryall peece; My Lord directs you to Report to him the Weight, Finess, and value of the same. I am

Gentlemen

[1]

Your most humble servant

W^m Lowndes.

May it please your Lordship

The Spanish piece of money of two Ryalls sent by your Lordships order to the Officers of the Mint to be weighed assayed & valued is in weight $3^{\text{dw}^{\text{t}}} 6^{\text{gr}}$, in assay $3\frac{1}{2}^{\text{dw}^{\text{t}}}$ worse then standard & in value ten pece wanting the third part of a farthing. And twelve such pieces are worth 9.^s 11^d.

[2]

Is. Newton

[3]

[1] Treasury Chambers Aug^t: 16th. 1711.

[2] Mint Office
21 Aug. 1711

[3] {Offic}ers Mint
