

Two holograph drafts of MINT00766 (/catalogue/record/MINT00766), (Mint 19/3/286), both likewise dated 17 January 1714/5.

Author: Isaac Newton

Source: MINT 19/3/275, 280, National Archives, Kew, Richmond, Surrey, UK

<275r>

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of his Majesties Treasury.

May it please your Lordships

That the Arms in the fourth Escutcheon on the Reverse of half Guineas & Sixpences may not be too much crowded I present your Lordships with the Designes hereunto annexed for those Reverses, with most humble submission to your Lordships great wisdom

Isaac Newton

[1]

<280r>

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of his Majesties Treasury.

May it please your Lordships

That the Arms in the fourth Escutcheon on the Reverses of the half Guineas & Sixpences may not be too much crowded I present your Lordships with the Designes hereunto annexed for those Reverses, with most humble submission to your Lordships great Wisdom

Isaac Newton

Having in a late Memorial signified to your Lordships that the Arms in the fourth Escutcheon may prove too much crouded on the Reverses of the half Guineas & Sixpences: for removing that difficulty I humbly present your Lordships with the Designes hereunto annexed for those Reverses, the same being the chief parts of his Majesties Arms proposed by the Earl Marshal & approved of. And I humbly propose that the same may be laid before his Majesty in Council for his approbation if it be thought fit.

All which is most humbly submitted to your Lordships great wisdom

I. N.

[1] Mint Office
17 Ian. 171 $\frac{4}{5}$.

[2] Mint Office.
17 Ian. 171 $\frac{4}{5}$.
