

Draft report: 'An accompt of what belongs to the Warden of his M<sup>ties</sup> Mint within the Tower of Lond<sup>on</sup>', listing the buildings regarded as the warden's property and those that used to be regarded as such.

Author: Isaac Newton

Source: MINT 19/1/25, National Archives, Kew, Richmond, Surrey, UK

---

<25r>

An accompt of what belongs to the Warden of his Majestys Mint within the Tower of Lond<sup>o</sup>. viz<sup>t</sup>

1 A large dwelling house a washhouse thereunto adjoyning & a garden opposite to both with a small house Contayning one roome at the end of the said Garden now Inhabited by m<sup>r</sup> Young

2 one other house Contayning 4 rooms & a wash house a lodging roome & some Cellerage over agaisnt it Inhabited by George Mary the Wardens Clerke

3 There was formerly a Coach house belonging to the Warden of the Mint between the Monyers kitching & m<sup>r</sup> Silvesters house {Containing} about 12 foote in breadth to the front next the street, & about 25 foote deepe

4. There was also a stable belonging to the warden at the further end of the Mint made into Lodgings for souldiers

About the year 1633 Sir W<sup>m</sup> Parckhurst & Sir Ant<sup>y</sup>. St Leger were Wardens of the Mint at which time the Wardens dwelling house was accounted from the house (wherein m<sup>r</sup> Roettiers now lives) into the Kitchin below stairs of the aforesaid G M<sup>r</sup> {illeg} {h{illeg}le}, & so upwards and all the roome over the Kitchin & Parlour that {Maiy} posessethe, was then a publick office for the Irish mony & the Warden passed to it from his house above stairs long after this one {Ric<sup>e</sup>} Briyot (a frenchman) made a proposall to K C to coin mony by the Mill & press beter then the monyers did so that then he had the said office or rooms abovestairs by a stair case added to those below allowed him by the officers & lived therein And after his death the Monyers tooke posession thereof & kept it untill the Vnhappy Rebellion when one Holland came to be Warden and he setled his Clerk in the said and after that One S<sup>t</sup>. Iohns was Warden & did the same to his Clerke so that from that time the whole hath bin reputed as belonging to the Warden

---